

EUROPEAN CONGRESS OF CONSUMER LAW

27 & 28 February 2025 - Montpellier

International Association of Consumer Law

The International Association of Consumer Law was born from the desire to create links by developing joint research actions on the evolution of consumer relations and their legal formalization in different regions of the world. Cooperation between institutions, universities, consumer organizations and experts is desired in order to enable and encourage research and teaching relating to consumer law.

The association has chosen to organize a European regional congress in Montpellier on Thursday February 27 and Friday February 28, 2025 to allow specialists of consumers Law to present their work, discuss the future of Consumers Law and pay tribute to Professor Jean Calais Auloy who was a professor at the University of Montpellier where he created the team specializing in the subject.

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

Two themes will be specifically studied and a specific moment will be devoted to topics freely proposed by the speakers. A reference to the work of Professor Jean Calais Auloy will be appreciated.

Thursday February 27th, morning

CONSUMER'S INFORMATION

The consumer relationship is by nature an unbalanced relationship, between a knowledgeable person and a layman, a professional whose economic interests justify efforts and a consumer constrained by his lower knowledge or his immediate needs, by his impulses, etc.

Informing consumers about their rights is, however, an essential issue to ensure the effectiveness of consumers Law: in this area, the means used are multiple and the distribution channels are diverse: codification, websites, consultations with consumer associations, explanations by public authorities, mediation by professional representatives, etc.

Thursday February 27th, afternoon

NEW CONSUMPTION HABITS AND NEW UNFAIR PRACTICES

Because of the emergence of new technologies, new modes of consumption are appearing, whether initiated by consumers, public authorities or professionals. These new offers can give rise to new practices, sometimes unfair, sometimes difficult to understand, for which common consumer Law may or may not appear effective in regulating the market and protecting consumers.

Friday February 28th, morning
